POSTAL CARD

NOTHING BUT THE ADDRESS CAN BE PLACED ON THIS SIDE.

Wm Brewster Esqr
Cambridge
Mass.

Sept 24 a 25 / 84

Chas Grant a. P.

Shot a Bicknells' Thrush this morning. — Struck on the roadside near Lang's cottage.

A. P. C.

[Shelburne N.H.
Sept. 24 & 25/84]

Shelburne
Aug 26-1884

Dear Mr. Brewster,

Gus prepaid the pistol and I enclose the bill which I have just succeeded in getting.

Yesterday I went up Mt Adams, then across by John Q. Adams, and up Madison, home. The trip was delightful but, as I expected, uninteresting so far as birds were concerned.

Juncos were plenty up to the summit and in the scrub timber Parus hudsonicus and Regulus satrapa quite common. I heard warblers in one place but could not stop to identify them.

Lamb and self each shot a specimen of Myiodioctes pusillus the other day and, also heard a Winter Wren. The former had evidently been breeding for the ground was favorable and one of the birds a young one.

Very truly yours,

Arthur P. Chadbourne

Pistol just received - It shoots beautifully. Many thanks.

A. P. Chadbourne

Aug. 26, 1884

Arthur P. Chadbourne
Sept. 21/84.

Shelburne
Sept 21/84

Dear Mr. Brewster,

I will try to give you some idea of my birds since you left here.

Collecting has not been as good at any time as when you were here, and Ingalls high mixed woods have been very poor.

I have found the following birds new to S.:

R. rubiginosa = Mill Brook by the road, Aug 27.
R. calendula = Since Sept 18th
P. hudsonicus = On the road, Sept 16 - 7 have come back of the house every morning
H. peregrina = Three seen Aug 19; one shot Aug 27
D. virens = Saw 2 yy Aug 19 - (Lambrons, & P.C. saw)
D. striata = First found in S. Sept 9th

D. hypochrysea: Rowasian Sept 16th

O. agilis: Com about a mile above Bowls & P., Sept 14th

S. narvius: Com at Gentian Pond Sept 18th

M. pusillus: Two in swamp Aug 23, two Sept 16th by the Log cottage

P. canadensis: Flock of 8 about halfway up Moriah. Two more at the summit.

Stiria nebulorum: Lurion

Segys atis: Com

F. columbarius:

C. cyaneus:

A. evoperi:

Anas obscura

Lamb probably told you of our trip to Luckermans Ravine and our luck there. The day after he left I went up both tops of Adams and Madison. Juncos to the very top of both peaks, P. hudsonius and R. oahapa in two places near the timber line. ——— Sept 2d & 3d went over the "Northern Peaks" from Lowe's and down through Luckermans Ravine. On the way up P. hudsonius was the most abundant bird with the exception of R. oahapa from 3000 feet to the timber line. I found it again in the saddle between Jefferson and Sam Adams, and again in two places near the camps in Luchermans Ravine. P. ~~Sitta~~ canadensis was heard but a very few times, but I saw one running over the bare rocks on the first summit of Clay. Saw H. peregrina in a large mixed flock at 4000 feet on the Rowe path. ~~###~~ A pair of S. ~~epaurienus~~ flew over the third cone of Clay and we saw one just after leaving the Summit House. As we were descending the cone of Jefferson a Panoria ~~hyaliactus~~ flew about ~~thirty~~ yards above us. I am absolutely sure of the identification —— Went to the high ledges of Baldcap which are behind Mt Ingalls. P. hudsonicus and C. agilis were the only interesting birds —— On Sept 15th went to the same place with the same results, except that I found S. naevius. —— Sept 20 went up the Shelburne Moriah. Found P. canadensis twice and

P. hesperus. A flock of warblers etc within at least 200 feet of the summits, but nothing of particular interest.

I have seen nothing of S. bicknelli, though I have frequently shot Hermits thinking they might be Bicknell's. — The Black-polls seemed to disappear after our last visit W. trip, and I have saw no more until I shot them in S. Sitta canadensis also disappeared soon after you left, and since then I do not think that I have seen and heard more than twenty five.—

Since the fifteenth Olive-backed Thrushes have appeared along the "intervale", but S. pallasi has been growing more and more scarce.

I shall probably be in C. the first of October and will then give you more detail.

Very truly yours
Arthur P. Chadbourne

My pistol is the strangest shooting one that I have ever had.

A. P. Chadbourne
July 19, 1885.

Willoughby Lake, Vt.
July 19-1885

My dear Mr. Brewster,

You will probably be surprised to find that we are in Vermont instead of at the "Lakes".

We stayed one day at Camp Dennis, where the food was wretched, and then a few days at Camp Kennebago Dam Lake, where everything was remarkably nice, after which we came here.

I made no skins but took careful notes on what I saw, and in a few cases where

When I have no fear, success is certain. Wilbur F. Chadbourne

I was absolutely sure—, on what I heard also.

Between Phillips and Rangeley, on the way over and returning, saw the following among other species: Galeoscoptes carol.[6], S. bicolor[4], C. pinus[2], Passer domesticus[10], P. erythrophthalmus[3], Emp. minimus[4], and D. aestiva.

Camp Bemis was much better than Camp Kennebago ornithologically and in a two hours walk I saw the following among others, T. fuscescens[5], T. swainsonii[6] (only one of T. pallasi), S. carolinensis[1], D. castanea, D. striata[10], D. blackburniae[8], V. olivaceus or philadelphicus[12], C. pinus[13], P. canadensis[1], C. borealis[2], Pic. arcticus[1], S. varius[4] & Dend. striata was the most abundant warbler (I shot one to make sure), but does seems to be nothing of great interest in the list.

I saw following while at Camp Kennebago:
S. swainsonii[16] (S. pallasii only 9), S. fuscescens[3], Patricapillus only[1], Oreothlypis bycum[3], Parula[11], D. coronata[12], D. maculosa[5], D. castanea[1],
D. striata[16], D. blackburniae[2], V. olivaceus or philadelphicus[3], Ch. pinus[20],
I. purpureus[55], C. borealis[5], S. varius[20], C. longicaudus, Sic. arcticus[2], Larus argentatus[2], Sterna nævia[1]. Again nothing of much interest.

One of the men at Kennebago showed me wings of a Tern (S. hirundo probably, possibly, S. macrura) and said that one had never been seen there before. The bird was surely identified as an immature Tern by his description of the plumage and bill. I think this may be worth a note, but cannot look it up here.

Willoughby is a failure ornithologically so far. S. swainsonii[18] (I have not surely identified S. pallasi asyet), Sitta canadensis,[8] S. aeervius, Myio. canadensis,[20] Cyanospiza cyanea, Emp. flaviventris,[6] Sphyro rubiu, D. blackburniae, Emp. minimus,[9] Ampelina, S. sialis. — The country has all been cut over, but today I saw quite a stretch of coniferous second growth, which I am going to examine later.

No letters have been forwarded yet so that I know nothing about anything at home.

Hoping that you will be more lucky

Arthur P. Chadbourn
March. 3. 1891.

München
Mar 3/91.

My dear Mr. Boucicault,

Your letter with its most welcome enclosure reached me a day or two ago. I want to thank you most heartily for the trouble you have taken, for I was fearful how little time you have to spare for correspondence.

The so called documents from Sage reached me about a week ago.

I shall try to go to Budapest, but cannot yet say surely whether I shall be able to do so, though I think it probable. —
The speech in German I shall ~~do~~ absolutely incapable of making. A man could forget more German in two weeks than he could learn in a year.
In Florence I met Prof. etc etc. Giglioli, to whom Allen gave me a letter of introduction from Allen Prof. H. is going to Budapest and moreover speaks English as well as he does Italian, of the latter I am of course no judge but his English is wonderfully good. He has a really superb collection of the Italian avifauna, and the arrangement of his books (which he explained to me) on local distribution and migration, is I think remarkably good.

Elsewhere (Paris, Dublin, etc) there is nothing of special interest, except some that Arthur remains. London we shall go back to later.

Spring birds are arriving very fast now. Chaffinches singing most beautifully all through the city, and many species that are strange to me. There is no good bird country near here but I have seen perhaps 15 migrant birds that I have identified.

With kind remembrances to Mrs Brewster, in which Mother joins, I remain yours
Arthur P. Chadbourne

Arthur P. Chadbourne
Feby 16 - 1894.

ARTHUR P. CHADBOURNE
[illegible] BROAD STREET
OFFICE HOURS 2 TO 3 P.M.

FEB 15 1894

My dear Mr Brewster,

Will you lend me as many ♀ Bobolinks as possible? I will take the best of care of them and return them as quickly as possible.

The Janitor of the Med. School and I are going for "Chapman about the "spring" "moult" of said bird.- "Jim" (alias the Janitor) has kept a Bobolink from fall until summer, cleaned the cage himself, found no feathers, but saw the bird gradually pass from the yellow to the black plumage

We now have 3 ♂s that we are watching w much interest. Thus far not a feather lost, but the breast shows a distinct gray tinge in all three birds, with wave-like cross shading.

I fear I may not leave Cambridge for Tinicum before I could spend the ornithological evening with you, that I have long been looking forward to. So if I am not fortunate enough to see you before you go, let me now wish you the best of good luck and a pleasant trip

Sincerely yours
Arthur P Chadbourne

Is there any way in wh. I can get the skins from the Agassiz Museum & BSNH for comparison?

POSTAL CARD—ONE CENT.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

THIS SIDE IS FOR THE ADDRESS ONLY.

Cleveland, O. T.
May 18, 1900

William Brewster Esq's
~~Cambridge~~ Mass
Concord.

Please forward if necessary.

Dear Mr. B, (Shan send him Thursday. the paper. — W. B.

Can you remember a copy of your Brown Creeper article, published long ago? It would be a help in working up the few notes I have, and I will return the separate [illegible] if you want it. — My bird literature is in Boston!

How were your photos? — I have a fine negative of the tree, but the nest is too small, and the bird even smaller. Nest — not Bird — ! Shall try again!!

Yrs H. P. C.

Chadbourne, A. P.
June, 1900

"COTTAGE FARM,"
NORTH SCITUATE, MASS.

Dear Mr. Brownell,

Forgive my mistake about Canada Flycatcher Warbler! I intended to say under"; not "in"; — an alder bush; and I hope you know me better than to think that I supposed the bird built in bushes!!

I enclose a couple of poor prints, made on "Solio" paper 18 mos old, & toned (?) in hypo. They give an idea of the negatives obtained and are about the right size for an unenlarged plate for the "Auk"

The young have not yet left the nest but are growing restless
The parents do not mind me even when only 3-4 feet from the tree.

You have me on the Mourning Warbler, but the Traill's has been added to my list.

We miss you much, and look forward to a longer visit from you before long!

Sincerely yours
Arthur H. Howell

5 whip-poor-wills singing as I write 2 male Quail in the field opposite the grove this afternoon (Apr 5)

Chadbourne A.P.
Jan. 31. 1902.

225 MARLBOROUGH STREET.

Dear Mr. Prentiss,

Did you ever find a use for all those "XXX! Envelopes"? I enclose one to show the particular kind in question. — I file the histories of certain cases in there and now need a new supply. — Do you — can't dispose of some of your stock? I thought I would ask before ordering from the maker.

Thanks for the fine Health Hints. I am sorry you had the trouble of sending them to me. Taylor could have called on them, but I was waiting until I was ready to "work over" the skins. Thanks also most heartily for the generous shelter given them during so many years.

Gilbert seems quite himself again since his removal (i.e., than I saw him yesterday). He seems to have left his "ghost" in Washington!

Sincerely yours
Arthur P. Chapman

I told them to send you catalogues of Sectional bookcases, files &c, when it was last at Macy's. Did you receive the same?

From a
Jan 31/12

Have just heard a Scops outside my office window here in Mallrose, at last! — The bird is calling now and seems to be in the ivy which covers the house.

LASTLY! There are Gypsy Moth nests, also "Brown tail Moth nest" all over the hill in front of 225 Mallrose St!

Jan 31/1902

#2794 Coll APC. Health Hens (Skin)
#2795 " " " " (")
#2904 " " " " (")

returned by Mr. Brewster to me in good condition.
Arthur P Chadbourne

Cheltenham, Ca. P.

Jan 31, 1902

Receipt of 3

Heads Hens.

"COTTAGE FARM,"
NORTH SCITUATE, MASS.

My dear Mr. Brewster,

Yours just received. I remember those Woodpeckers well, for I remember one of the pair before I knew they were nesting. My notes are all in Boston, but the first time I go to the house I will get my record and mail a copy to you. If necessary I will go especially for this and be glad to do so; therefore please let me know.

All I remember with certainty is that one afternoon while I was sitting on the pond skidyung, a Red headed W.

flew into a tree in front of the house (21 Buckingham St.) I reached in pocket for my collecting pistol, and went up the street searching for the bird.
Heard the bird call (I never heard this species "converse, and had an impression it never did so! But the harsh note would be correct for drumming on a dead limb, I should think!) — and just as I approached the old slaw steel under the Priests house the bird flew from the side of the tree (which ?) to the front behind the trunk, so that I can't tell whether he went inside the hole or not.) — I followed, into the fence, and had a rather long shot with 32 cal S&W 10 shot-and a hit near the Branch Head.
Some feathers fell and the woodpecker flew apparently with difficulty into the apple orchard between Dr Wyman's and the Russel place. — I hunted for the "corpse" a long time but did not find the specimen. —— The apple trees were in leaf at the time, — perhaps in flower as well, but my impression is that except in the orchard the foliage was not advanced enough to interfere with seeing the bird. —— As to the Priest: all I know about him is that he made more noise playing billiards, — and that "on Sunday!", than the Red-heads did. Further that he invited me to join him in a game, which I declined.

It must have been after this that someone, possibly Col Higginson, though I am not sure, told me that the birds were so wary that the Priest had determined to get rid of them by shooting. If The birds may have been shot but it may have been that the tree was cut down.

You see from the above that from my own observation I can't say that the birds were nesting, although there can be but little doubt that they intended to do so. Please do not use the above data until I send you the next notes.

Further than the above I believe Charles Lamb, told me of the occurrence of this species late in the Spring. This I can also let you know about from my notes date 72.

That black haired Phil. Daniels who formerly painted compasses for Kilchis & Co in Brookline also told me of a pair of Red-haired Woodpeckers which nested in an oak near the Geo Steadmans on Cypress hill near Brookline. It goes with out saying that Daniels managed to break up the family somehow, but what he got in the way of "boots" I do not remember now. I believe I have a better opinion of human retentive than you have, but I only mention this as we are not touching for the trail.

Just as soon as we finish haying we are looking for word to your promised visit. Will you let me know what time you have decided upon and I will then write you definitely about it.

The mail is just going!

Sincerely yours,

William P. Chadbourne

Chadbourne – A.P.

My dear Mr. Brooke,

Your "Cambridge Ode"
just has reached here & I have read it through by Gilbert, and I write to thank you for it now. You know say I look forward to several evenings of quiet enjoyment before I finish reading it.

Mrs. Chadbourne is cutting the leaves now and she says she has found many things which interest either in the prose or

Thanking you again and looking forward to seeing you once more before long

As ever

Sincerely yours

Arthur Pound

Boston

November Thirteenth

REPLY POSTAL CARD
United States of America
BOSTON MASS.
10 PM
10 00
THIS SIDE IS FOR ADDRESS ONLY STATION
REPLY CARD
ONE CENT
Walter Deane.
145 Brattle St.
Cambridge
Mass.
Cha Townsend a. p.
Nov 29. 1900.

Stied in Bed, but I think
I ought to be up!!
Ask Gilbert about Sexy Raven. I may have noticed but did not know it was wanted. Sorry I was not asked to note it, but it's too late NOW

REPLY POSTAL CARD

United States of America

THIS SIDE IS FOR ADDRESS ONLY

Chestnut a. P.
Jan 4 1903

Mr Walter Deane
Cambridge Mass
Brewster St

[Fed. 4 1905]

On Jan 1st 1885: Went to Fresh Pond Marshes, via
"Spring Lane" (now Huron Ave.?)
I find no mention of Spizella monticola under the above date, but it is quite possible I did not think it worthy of mention when I copied my "field notes." At that time I kept nothing except a "journal" in which I did not always put down the common species.

Why do you want it?
(viz locality) – Is the date unusual?

APC